

Millance PMM Account Policy

Overview

A PAMM (Percentage Allocation Money Management) Account is a profit-sharing system in which an investor allocates funds to a professional trader for management.

Key Points:

How It Works?

Investors allocate their capital to a PAMM trader.

- The trader manages all funds collectively as a single pool, executing trades on behalf of all investors.
- Profits and losses are distributed proportionally according to each investor's contribution.

Investor Benefits:

- 1.No active trading required—let the professionals handle it for you.
- 2.Investors can review performance statistics before committing funds.
- 3.Profits are withdrawn according to predefined agreements.

Risk Warning:

- PAMM trading does not guarantee profits, and losses are shared proportionally according to capital allocation.
- Investors should carefully review the trader's history and risk profile before investing.
